

Cue Bidding to Slam

Rationale

In a number of lessons, in a game forcing situation, we have used “control” bids to tell partner that there could be more than game on a particular board. This lesson clarifies this process through the concept of “Cue Bidding”.

FAQ: What is a “cue bid”?

ANS: After suit agreement, the bid of a new suit which can't be a long suit trial is called a cue bid. It shows first round control of that suit. 1st round control is a void or the ace. 2nd round control is a singleton or the king. We start with the control which we have closest to our last bid.

FAQ: When should we be cue bidding rather than using blackwood?

ANS: 1..if you have a void
2.. If you have an uncontrolled suit .i.e. two or more losers off the top
3.. If you need to know whether partner holds a specific king

Slam suggesting bids

- When we have an agreed suit in a game forcing situation but below game, the bid of a new suit shows 1st round control of that suit. Further, it suggests that slam should be considered. It is an extension of Fast Arrival. “We’re going to game slower so I’m interested in more than game.”
- Partner agrees to the suggestion by cue bidding also. By agreement, partner is not obliged to cue bid if he feels his hand doesn’t suit. When he does cue bid, his bid will be 1st round control.
- All further cue bids are 1st round control unless the player has already denied 1st round control or our side has already shown 1st round control. Show cue bids in order with cheapest first.

Let’s look at a few bidding sequences

¹limit
²This can't be a trial bid. – We are committed to 4S anyway. It must be 1st round control of clubs and suggesting slam. 4 losers opposite 8 losers.

³Slam try is accepted and 1st round control.

⁴1st round control of hearts.

⁵Why did east pause at 4S? It indicates either poor trumps or no further controls. It can't be both problems or he wouldn't have encouraged west.

⁶1st & 2nd round control of clubs. I know east is worried about trumps – he can't have good ones because I've got them.

⁷2nd round control of hearts – west has 1st.

⁸Partner that 2nd round heart control is gold!

FAQ: Aren't you worried that you'll bid slam knowing all the suits are “controlled” but the opponents still have ace king or trumps or trump ace and another ace?

ANS: Yes! Sometimes, you will also use blackwood after you're satisfied that we're close and no open suit or void is evident.

²1st round control in clubs – slam suggestion
³1st round control. Slam suggestion accepted.

Without DA, east would decline and sign off in 4H.

⁴Not as rash as it looks. Do we have a trump loser to go with our spade loser. That wouldn't leave east with much of a hand for his game raise.

FAQ: Surely an immediate 4NT would do?

ANS: If east is allowed to splinter with a singleton A or K, it may not do. Also, it can be a spade void.

²4 loser. 4C is clearly a 1st or 2nd cue bid since we are now committed to game.

³Yikes. Neither of us have the spades controlled. Otherwise, he would have bid 3S before 4C. No way am I telling him I have DA. I hope this auction is over.
